We have 4 committees

Director's Dilemma:

Put your critical and analytical thinking to the test and prove your decision-making skills in the Director's Dilemma. This committee digs deep into intricate business scenarios, dissecting the multifaceted realm of commerce and the obstacles faced during crucial decision-making situations. Work on a case study, which dives into a pharma company's strategic thinking, and further goes into their complex interplay of ethics, innovation, and profitability.

Mercantile Conflict:

The Cold War, a geopolitical rivalry between the United States and the Soviet Union, held crucial economic effects, some beneficial and some costly. This competition spurred technological advancements but also strained economies. Rewinding time itself will offer a brand new perspective on the adversities firms and industries had to face during an era often overlooked. In the Mercantile Conflict, work out the implication of how the past has affected our current world's economic state.

Roosevelt Card:

The Roosevelt card assesses participants' macroeconomics knowledge and focuses on the trade war between the BRICS and the United States of America. Explore current economic affairs and how the faltering power of USD is affecting the ongoing situations. Discuss, debate and delve deeper into how the situation between the two opposing sides are affecting the global economies.

Shark Tank:

Introducing our groundbreaking and highly anticipated new committee, 'Shark Tank,' where unique ideas of upcoming businesses transform into reality! Aspiring entrepreneurs have a golden chance to ignite their concepts through meticulously crafted business models. This extraordinary platform is designed for established businesses driven by an unwavering passion to make their visions come alive.

Best wishes,
